

SYN MEDIA LEARNING

Young people are increasingly consuming new media and in line with SYN's 'creators, not consumers' philosophy, we teach students to make creative and engaging media pieces. Hands on learning for your students in our classroom and yours! SYN offers a number of different programs for schools.

Schools on Air

Our most popular program, SYN's 'Schools on Air' live radio puts students live in our on-air studio with a SYN trainer once a week for a full term. Includes online resources for students and teachers as well as a dedicated web page for your class to upload media and interact with other schools and young media makers.

Duration: 1 term.

Capacity: 27 students.

Radio Tours

Try a taste of SYN with this short excursion. Students will learn about community media as well as produce a live radio program in our production studio that will be made available to download from the SYN website. Podcasts from all SYN Radio Tours are available for streaming and downloading on SYN.org.au.

Duration: 1.5 hours.

Capacity: 27 students.

Vodcast Workshop

Make a class video blog with SYN. Students learn to film and edit their own video segment then work as a class to produce a final video blog that will be published on the SYN website. SYN will provide each student with support materials including video tutorials on USBs to use after the workshop. We can run this at SYN or come out to you!

Duration: Half day or full day.

Capacity: 27 students.

Podcasting Workshop

Students work in groups to record and edit their own audio pieces, which are then published on the SYN website as podcasts. SYN will provide each student with support materials on USBs as well as a class set of microphones to keep you podcasting after the workshop. We can run this at SYN or come out to you!

Duration: Half day or full day.

Capacity: 27 students.

SYN's education programs are flexible

SYN media learning programs use radio and online media to encourage students to critically discuss a range of topics relating to the school curriculum. They do not have to exist within a Media Studies class. It can involve any year level and any subject within your school.

SYN's programs are designed with flexibility in mind. Feel free to contact the Education and Training Manager and discuss how SYN can create an education package that will suit you and your students' needs.
